101

To access relevant support and advice contact your local police on 101.

The threat from terrorism in the UK, related to conflicts in Syria and Iraq, is of great concern. So too is the number of people being radicalised or drawn into terrorist related activities at home and abroad.

Together we can help stop this. Communities and families are asked to contact police about anyone they feel may be vulnerable. This includes anyone who is showing signs of becoming radicalised, who may have returned to the UK from Syria or may be planning to go to Syria or another conflict zone.

Trust your instincts and help us prevent tragedies.

We would rather take lots of calls which are easily explained than receive no calls at all.

Call your local police on 101 (non emergency number). They will help you gain access to support and advice.
